COMMISSION AND CERTIFICATION

The Certification Division of the Washington State Criminal Justice Training Commission (WSCJTC) can grant, deny, suspend, or revoke certification of, or require remedial training for peace officers, certified limited authority officers, and corrections officers in Washington State.

The WSCJTC certifies corrections officers, general and limited authority officers, including tribal officers under RCW 43.101.157. Limited authority officers must work for a limited authority agency, have arrest powers, and carry a firearm as part of their normal duty.

(1)(a) Upon separation of a peace officer or corrections officer from an employing agency for any reason, including termination, resignation, or retirement, the agency shall notify the commission within 15 days of the separation date on a personnel action report form provided by the commission.

(b) If the employer accepts an officer's resignation or retirement in lieu of termination, the employing agency shall report the reasons and rationale in the information provided to the commission, including the findings from any internal or external investigations into alleged misconduct.
