Foster Pepper Ranks Eighth On Puget Sound Business Journal's "Corporate Philanthropists - Medium" List

Foster Pepper once again was recognized as one of the "Top 75 Corporate Philanthropists" in the region by the Puget Sound Business Journal, ranking eighth on the "Corporate Philanthropists – Medium" list, and the top law firm in that category. The medium category includes companies with annual revenues between $20 and $500 million.

In 2013, the firm donated approximately $576,000 to charitable causes, including Boys & Girls Clubs of King County, Swedish Medical Center Foundation, Costco Scholarship Fund, the American Heart Association, Special Olympics of Washington, among many others.

"We are excited to once again be ranked with our peer companies around the region," said Jeffrey Frank, the firm's Managing Partner. "Community service is a cornerstone of our firm culture and we maintain a strong commitment to improving our community through our charitable giving and pro bono service."

In 2013, Foster Pepper supported more than 100 organizations and provided more than 5,400 hours of pro bono service, up from approximately 4,000 hours in 2012.
