Foster Pepper Ranks Eighth On Puget Sound Business Journal's "Corporate Philanthropists - Medium" List

Foster Pepper was again recognized as one of the "Top 75 Corporate Philanthropists" in the region by the Puget Sound Business Journal, ranking eighth on the "Top Corporate Philanthropists – Medium" list, and the top law firm in that category. The medium category includes companies with annual revenues between $20 and $500 million.

In 2014, the firm donated more than $500,000 to charitable causes, including Alliance for Education, Food Lifeline, Rebuilding Together Seattle, Seattle Alliance Outreach, Campaign for Equal Justice, United Way King County, University of Washington Foundation, Friends of CASA and Wayfind, among many others. The firm's Charitable Contributions Committee is led by Members Katie Carder McCoy and Rafael Stone and guides the firm's charitable giving activities.

"Philanthropy is a cornerstone of our firm culture," said Jeffrey Frank, the firm's Managing Partner. "We are honored to be recognized for our strong commitment to improving our community through our charitable giving and our pro bono service."
