

"Private Land Use Regulation Through CC&Rs: The Tension Between Private Interest and Public Policy," Oregon State Bar 2017 RELU Spring Forum

Speaking Engagement
April 28, 2017
Tigard, OR

With increasing pressure to provide housing through infill development, development projects in established neighborhoods are running into private agreements that restrict partition and subdivision of the land. This presentation will cover the enforceability of private agreements to restrict development and the tension with public policy that encourages infill.

Co-presented with Alan Rappleyea, Washington County Counsel.

For additional information and to register, download the Real Estate and Land Use Spring Forum 2017 brochure.

Contact

Paul H. Trincherro

Related Services

Eminent Domain & Inverse
Condemnation

Litigation

Real Estate, Land Use & Environmental