In her civil litigation practice, Audrey focuses on helping clients navigate a broad range of disputes from initiation through resolution and on appeal. As a passionate client advocate, Audrey provides practical and creative solutions to resolve complex legal disputes, in addition to helping her clients achieve their business goals.

Audrey's practice concentrates on advising both private and public entities with respect to construction, eminent domain, public utilities, local improvement districts, and municipal procurement. Audrey's clients look to her for comprehensive review and counseling in commercial contracts, regulatory compliance and risk management.

The breadth of Audrey's litigation experience spans a range of cases across a variety of practice areas, including disputes over implied easements, non-judicial foreclosure, construction defect, lien, and delay claims, intellectual property, commercial leases, and business torts. Having litigated in both trial and appellate courts, as well as in private arbitration, Audrey is adept at developing innovative strategies and solutions to meet the unique needs of her clients. Harmonizing passionate advocacy with real-world sensibility, clients appreciate Audrey's direct and dynamic approach to problem-solving.

Prior to joining Foster Garvey, Audrey previously worked in insurance defense where she defended clients against claims for personal injury, construction defect, and professional
