

Euclid Society Meeting: Dealing with the Downsides of Density

Seminar
June 6, 2013
Garvey Schubert Barer Portland Office

Discussion topics will include:

Consider Richmond Neighbors for Responsible Growth v. City of Portland and Kerns Neighbors for Rational Growth v. City of Portland - a recent spate of LUBA cases considering administrative issuance of building permits, design and what decisions constitute "land use decisions."

Design - The substantial challenge of adopting clear and objective standards and the deterrent effect of solutions that fail to address the neighbors' concerns.

Parking – Summary of new parking standards in Portland and what affect will they have on affordable housing options and development generally.

Appealing administrative decisions – Building permits, subdivision modifications and property line adjustments that involve discretionary decision making are subject to LUBA jurisdiction and may require an individual hearing and opportunity for a public hearing.
