

“Professionals’ Liability for Cyber Breach,” DRI Professional Liability Seminar

Speaking Engagement
December 3, 2015
New York, NY

A professional firm’s data security policy, including its policy regarding email, document production, and cloud computing, raises special concerns above and beyond those other businesses encounter—they must take into account state-imposed ethical standards for data security. These same ethical standards also set forth guidelines that can implicate the firm’s potential liability. Presented with Suhey Nevarez, Professional Risk Counsel at ACE Group, the panel discusses the repercussions of a cyber-breach in terms of potential liability and other consequences.
