“Behind the Scenes of Group Contracting,” Puget Sound Economic Summit

September 16, 2020 - 11:20 -11:50 a.m. Time: 11:20 -11:50 a.m.

As part of the Puget Sound Economic Summit, Greg Duff will speak about the legal implications of COVID-19 on meetings and events. He’ll discuss what it looks like to host groups, the challenges and potential legal liabilities planners should be aware of, and what alternative you will want to have in place.

The Puget Sound Economic Summit is a three-day virtual conference that will address the goal of advancing an equitable and inclusive recovery from the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. The summit will bring together business leaders, government officials, nonprofit organizations and meeting planners to provide thought leadership and engaging content to drive business decisions as the region moves forward.

The Summit is in partnership with the Port of Seattle, KOMO News Media and Puget Sound Business Journal, and will be livestreamed from the newly-renovated Bell Harbor International Conference Center.
