Communications, Telecom & Media

Guiding innovators in telecom, media, and communications law as they shape the way the world connects, informs and entertains

With decades of experience in telecommunications law, our attorneys guide clients through complex regulatory frameworks, including matters before the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). As trusted FCC attorneys, we support clients in contract negotiations and transactions involving asset sales, stock transfers, tower leases, programming rights, licensing, and secured financing.

We proudly serve a diverse clientele including broadcast, cable, Internet and telecommunications companies. Our innovative clients include commercial and noncommercial broadcasters, trade associations, cable companies, American Indian Tribes, technology companies, and broadband and e-commerce providers.

As a leading communications law firm, our deep industry insight and regulatory experience give clients a strategic advantage in an increasingly complex landscape. By anticipating legal challenges and tracking emerging trends in telecom and media, we help clients move decisively in a rapidly evolving sector.
