Foster Garvey

Liquor & Cannabis Law

Neighboring States File US Supreme Court Lawsuit Against Colorado

12.18.14

Nebraska and Oklahoma sued Colorado today, arguing that Colorado's legalization of marijuana has undermined decisions by Nebraska and Oklahoma to ban marijuana in their states and that it places stress on their criminal justice systems. Nebraska and Oklahoma also argue that Colorado does not have authority under the Supremacy Clause of the U.S. Constitution to legalize marijuana because it conflicts with the federal Controlled Substances Act, under which marijuana is illegal.

Nebraska and Oklahoma sued Colorado today, arguing that Colorado's legalization of marijuana has undermined decisions by Nebraska and Oklahoma to ban marijuana in their states and that it places stress on their criminal justice systems. Nebraska and Oklahoma also argue that Colorado does not have authority under the Supremacy Clause of the U.S. Constitution to legalize marijuana because it conflicts with the federal Controlled Substances Act, under which marijuana is illegal.

Posted in Federal

Authored by

Brad C. Deutsch

Principal|New York

202.298.1793 brad.deutsch@foster.com

© 2026 Foster Garvey PC. All Rights Reserved.